Cllr Chu, Cllr Keating, Cllr Colley-Urquhart, Cllr Chabot,
Cllr Demong, Cllr Sutherland, Cllr Magliocca, Cllr Jones, Mayor Nenshi

WHEREAS the Public Art Policy (CPS2003-95) was implemented by Council in 2004 to pursue the integration of public art into the cultural fabric of Calgary, recognizing public art as a vital ingredient in Calgary's ongoing development as a great city;

AND WHEREAS Administration in 2004 identified areas that required clarity and refinement in order to fulfill the intent and potential of the policy, with Council approving such amendments in 2004 that included the Guiding Principles of:

- Open and transparent processes to ensure equitable and respectful practices,
- Community input and engagement that create a variety of opportunities for public input and involvement

AND WHEREAS the City has developed necessary internal processes and practices,

AND WHEREAS in December, 2014 Council passed NOM2013-34 directing Administration to:

- Undertake stakeholder engagement, research, and communication to identify knowledge gaps of existing practices to address the lack of a consistent approach in the execution of public art projects and
- Address an environment where a number of opportunities for timely public participation and communication were missed or not utilized effectively leading citizens to find out about the projects after the fact or through the media.

AND WHEREAS a comprehensive Public Art Policy Review was already conducted in 2014 which resulted in The Public Art Policy Management Framework (51 pages) which the ALT received for information in January, 2015 but has not been made public or used to engage the public for their input;

AND WHEREAS this comprehensive review was primarily an internal cross-corporate alignment of the policy and dictates how, and how much, the City will allocate for public art associated with infrastructure projects regardless of current economic realities,
